

I just wanted to follow up with you and let you know that we ran our first Transitions class last night and it was a huge success! Mike presented the material to the group and answered questions for almost 2 hours - it was an incredible start to the program. But ... we couldn't have done it without Carl's help and I feel so grateful that I wanted to say something. All too often people comment on a negative experience and stay silent when they have a positive experience. In this case, Carl has been a tremendous help in getting us up and rolling in the right direction and I think he deserves the credit for our success. He has spoken with us (too many times to count) on the phone and answered my late night questions on email. He has cleared his schedule to meet with us and go over tactics which we used to implement the Transitions program. He has gone above and beyond the call of duty to make sure that we were armed with the right tools, along with the confidence, to get started. Because of his help, we started our first Transitions class and have a second one scheduled to begin in 3 weeks! Both Mike and I hope that one day we will be able to help him as much as he has been able to help us. Anyway, I just wanted to let you know how happy we are with the support we've received along the way. Have a great week and I'll talk to you soon.

Sincerely,
Mary and Mike

These are some of the concerns I have regarding this rule.

Seven-Day Waiting Period

- Casts direct selling plan in a negative light
- Leads to record keeping and administrative problems
- Causes unnecessary delays

Litigation Reporting

- Is unfair that it does not distinguish between winning and losing lawsuits

References

- Is impractical to find 10 nearest distributors
- Raises privacy issues due to ID theft and safety

The very thought of governmental interference in the free enterprise process strikes fear in the hearts of Americans everywhere. Cherished values are at stake, and the FTC needs to be aware of the dangers of ill considered action.

The public is not well served by the FTC's overregulation of an industry that is causing absolutely no harm and more than adequately polices itself by remedying any and all complaints by members of the public. Market America complies with all applicable buy back requirements and always makes it easy for individuals to exit the Company, if the business opportunity is not right for them.

While the FTC needs to protect the public where necessary, this proposed rule is hopelessly overbroad and misguided. The seven-day waiting period is unnecessary and will interfere with my ability to enter into lawful transactions and enroll new distributors. People buy TV's, cars, and other much more costly items without such a waiting period. This proposed waiting period gives the impression that something is wrong with the plan. And, the burdensome paperwork, which will not even be read by the public, makes it extremely difficult for the individual participant to fully comply, thereby risking fines and other penalties for such failures, however innocent. By these actions, the FTC does a disservice to the consuming public and Americans everywhere who are trying to get ahead by starting their own business, or earning necessary supplemental income to help support their family.

While I appreciate the work of the FTC in protecting consumers, I believe this proposed new rule has many unintended consequences that could be avoided by a less burdensome approach.

Thank you for your time in considering my comments.

Sincerely yours,

Carl Wagner
